

THANK YOU!

On behalf of Dialogues On Diversity we want to thank you for your attendance. Our objective is to foster a healthier conversation about race and culture in the U.S. Only by taking an honest look at who we are as a society and committing ourselves to the principles laid out by our forefathers can we fully embrace our true American potential.

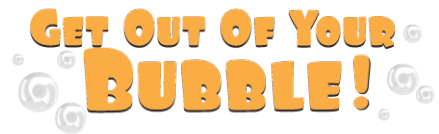

The BJD was written to model what a positive respectful discourse can look like. Our social and political climate have only intensified and raised the urgency for us to dialogue across our differences. Ferguson, Paris, San Bernardino, and the emerging refugee crisis are prime examples of how not talking about the cultural challenges that are facing us worsen when fear, ignorance, and apathy rule the day.

Current DOJ/FBI statistics bear out that in recent years crimes across the board have been declining, but hate crimes have been on the rise since 2005.

To solve a problem you must first face it. The issues around race and culture have always been a slippery slope. People are so concerned about not offending that they find it easier to not engage. This show, as well as other Dialogue On Diversity programs, is our attempt to ease the air with the hope of making it a more comfortable exchange for all parties concerned.

Thank you again,
Dialogues On Diversity

We are totally committed to taking this message anywhere we can be heard. To that end please feel free to approach us if you know of any institutions that may be interested in our work. You can get much more information on all the programs we offer at our website.

Deepen The Dialogue

Our objective is to engage the country in a didactic process of increasing our awareness of the deep and rich diversity of all types, which is the cornerstone of the American character. To that end we have urge you to visit our social justice page. There you will find hundreds of cultural advocacy groups and organizations.

<http://dialoguesondiversity.com/social-justice>

Share Your Stories

We encourage you to share your feelings, experiences and opinions with our Facebook, Twitter and YouTube communities. Yours may be the words that make all the difference in another's life.

/theblackjewdialogues

/TheBJD

/theblackjewdialogues

Dialogues On Diversity

A Social Justice Theater Company

Everyone is Different – Everyone Belongs
Engaging a changing world through learning, laughter and dialogue

www.dialoguesondiversity.com

Dialogues on Diversity presents:

*"The deal with multiculturalism is that the only culture you're allowed to disapprove of is your own."
– Martin Ami*